DEMAND AND SUPPLY

Despite huge demand for foreign language professionals in the market there is not much information available for aspirants. India requires a huge number of foreign language experts, particularly in Spanish, Arabic, Portuguese, French, as well as in English. One important reason for shortage of trained foreign language professionals universities.

PAY PACKET

Foreign language professionals earn attractive remuneration depending upon the work and the organization. Professionals working for PR or Marketing Department of any MNC can earn r30,000 –r50,000 per month. Teachers can earn any salary in the range of r20,000 to r40,000 a month. Translators on the other hand receive r400 to r700 per page; compensation depends a lot upon the proficiency in the language. Similarly, an interpreter who is paid on an hourly basis can earn r1000 to r4000 per hour, again depending upon his caliber and work experience.

JOB PLACEMENT SERVICES

In an increasingly interconnected and globalised world, there exists a huge demand for in-house language experts in all businesses. From small (start-ups) to large organisations (MNC's), the realisation for a need of language specialists is growing at an exponential rate. In some cases, it is more time-efficient for an organisation to hire candidates who are equipped with the required linguistic proficiency rather than training permanent personnel. In these cases, we cater to the needs of clients by offering placement services and assistance in the recruitment of skilled linguistic professionals. With 20 years of experience, our recruitment team sources the most suitable candidates based on a thorough screening and evaluation process to shortlist the ones that best fit the clients specific requirements.

JOB PROSPECTS

Academic qualification and proficiency in foreign languages opens the gate for career in sectors such as tourism, embassies, diplomatic service, entertainment, public relations and mass communication ,international organizations, publishing, interpretation and translation, etc. International organizations such as the United Nations Organization (UNO), Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) and various Indian national organizations such as Ministry of External Affairs, Reserve Bank of India (RBI)require professionals who have specialization in foreign languages.

Institute Hispania Teacher's Team includes native Spanish speakers and Indian teachers as well, all assigned to the students according to the needs and proficiency they have to attain. The native-speakers come from Spain and different parts of the Latin American continent, providing through our methodology, a very wide cultural background for the students to learn and interact in many interesting ways. Most of our Indian local teachers are recruited by the Institute on the basis of their excellent communicative proficiency and outstanding performance in an international Spanish qualification. Both profiles have some teaching experience and go through a rigorous training programme to attain a thorough understanding of the needs of the Indian student and deliver teaching quality in each class.
